By every measure, Obamacare is a disaster. It is forcing companies to lay off workers, cut back hours, and drop benefits. It is raising insurance premiums, boosting taxes on medical devices, and forcing people to violate their religious beliefs by subsidizing such things as abortion.

It is doing everything we were told it wouldn’t do. Obamacare is so bad that even left-wing labor unions that backed the president want the law radically changed or repealed. The Teamsters railed that Obamacare is destroying their “hard-earned health benefits” and killing the “40-hour workweek that is the backbone of the middle class.”

You didn’t see that story on ABC, CBS, or NBC.

The colossal failures of Obamacare are endless, but the liberal media, especially the networks, are either burying the bad news or spinning it to look like good news. ABC, CBS, NBC, as well as MSNBC, USA Today, Washington Post, New York Times, AP, lefty news organs on the Internet, and Hollywood are doing everything they can to censor the truth about Obamacare.

Here at the Media Research Center we’re exposing and neutralizing that liberal media bias 24/7 with our NewsBusters blog, and throughout the day with our divisions — News Analysis, BMI, CMI, CNSNews.com, MRCTV — and MRC Action, the grassroots members who help spread the word and fight back through social media and through friends, family and co-workers.

The MRC is America’s media watchdog, and you’re in our army. Here’s some ammunition you can use to help get the truth out:

- A CNN poll from late September showed that 57% of Americans oppose Obamacare, and all the major polls on average reveal 51% against. So, despite three years of leftist propaganda since the Affordable Care Act became law, a majority of Americans still don’t want it, and that number continues to grow!
- In mid-summer the administration quietly announced a delay: people don’t have to show proof of their eligibility for Obamacare’s federal subsidies until 2015. ABC and CBS have not reported that fact and the CBS Evening News gave it just 9 seconds of coverage.
- On Aug. 1, the Office of Personnel Management gave members of

Congress and their staff permission to continue receiving their generous taxpayer-funded health insurance subsidies even when they sign up for Obamacare, while regular Americans who sign up won’t be able to get the subsidies they used to get from their employers.

That’s a double standard: one rule for the elites in Congress and a different rule for the rest of us. ABC and NBC never covered it. CBS This Morning gave it 18 seconds; the CBS Evening News said nothing.

As for labor union opposition to Obamacare, the left-wing media have been nearly silent. The Teamsters letter from Jimmy Hoffa was signed by two other major unions, representing some 3 million workers. That public letter was sent to Senate Majority Harry Reid (D-Nev.) and House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.). The Wall Street Journal’s conservative editorial page reported on it.

The letter noted that Obamacare was “already creating nightmare scenarios,” and said the law “will destroy the very health and wellbeing of our members along with millions of other hardworking Americans.” ABC, CBS, NBC, and CNN said nothing.

At an AFL-CIO convention in September, the head of the 600,000-member Laborers’ Union, Terry O’Sullivan, gave a speech thundering that if Obamacare isn’t fixed, it must be “repealed.” He added, “We’ll be damned if it isn’t fixed, it must be “repealed.”

That’s B.S. from the AP, the Administration Press.

As for how many Americans have actually signed up for the glorious Obamacare through the exchanges, the White House either doesn’t know or isn’t saying. On MSNBC’s Morning Joe, Oct. 4, WH official David Simas chirped that they were “accumulating data” and might know in “the next few weeks” and “probably do monthly reports,” or something.

NewsBusters reported that only 0.6% had registered for Obamacare in Connecticut the first day, and the UK Daily Mail reported only 0.58% of website visitors from California. A state paper in Louisiana on Oct. 2 said that “not one person has yet successfully enrolled” in Obamacare.

The networks, MSNBC, USA Today, and other liberal outlets weren’t reporting those numbers.

The liberal media invested their all in Barack Obama when they helped him get elected in 2008 and re-elected in 2012. If his signature legislation fails, his presidency fails, and so does what’s left of the credibility of so-called mainstream journalism.

That’s why the liberal media are censoring the truth and, in effect, lying to the American people. We must continue to unmask that deception and hold the media accountable. The MRC is the only conservative organization in America that has the experts, technology, and near-30-years’ experience to do that. You can help us in this crucial struggle by making a donation to the MRC today. Call 571-267-3500 and ask to speak with Development. I look forward to hearing from you, and may God bless you.

Sincerely,

L. Brent Bozell III
Founder and President

[Image: Review: HealthCare.gov a winner despite glitches]

Despite the glaring and frustrating failures of the $394-million Obamacare website, which still doesn’t work right, USA Today, the No. 1-in-circulation paper in the country, absurdly proclaimed Healthcare.gov “a winner” and an “out-of-the-box success.”

As for how many Americans have actually signed up for Obamacare, HealthCare.gov, was opened to the public. People who don’t currently have health insurance or are shopping for something better have six months to register and purchase a plan through the website.

The only problem is that the estimated $394 million site doesn’t work properly and consumers face lengthy delays, error messages, closed pages — “the system is down at the moment” — and, in general, can’t register. The White House and their stenographers in the liberal media call these problems “glitches.”

Typical was USA Today’s Tim Mullaney who dutifully wrote on Oct. 5, “HealthCare.gov a winner despite glitches. Look past its start-up glitches — they’ll get fixed — HealthCare.gov is an out-of-the-box success for consumers shopping for health insurance.”

Mullaney also cheered that these “technical glitches [are] likely to be gone by Thanksgiving,” two months after the “out-of-the-box success.” Yes, that’s the propaganda from the No. 1-in-circulation newspaper in the America.

On MSNBC, Ed Schultz spun the “glitches” as a sign of success, “the free market working is what that is!” In MSNBC’s warped mind, millions of Americans want Obamacare and are crashing the system in their enthusiasm.

The AP laughably claimed that the “overloaded websites and jammed phone lines” constituted proof of “exceptionally high interest in the new system.”
The William F. Buckley Jr. Award for Media Excellence

MRC Honors Dr. Charles Krauthammer

EDITOR’S NOTE: This year’s William F. Buckley Jr. Award for Media Excellence was given to syndicated columnist, author, and Fox News contributor Dr. Charles Krauthammer at the 2013 MRC Gala, held in Washington, D.C. on Sept. 26. For video, see www.MRC.org. Below are excerpts from presenter Cal Thomas and awardee Dr. Charles Krauthammer.

CAL THOMAS: I want to thank Brent for not putting my picture in the program tonight. I’m so tired of getting letters from desperate housewives. It’s a great personal privilege for me to present my second favorite columnist [laughter], Charles Krauthammer, with this year’s with this year’s William F. Buckley Award for Media Excellence. I started reading Charles as a child. In fact, my father was a fan of his during World War II. [laughter] … His syndicated column began in 1985 in the middle of the Reagan Revolution. He’s won the Pulitzer Prize, one of the few conservatives to do so. He is a medical doctor and psychiatrist, which gives him standing to analyze crazy liberal ideas and behavior. [laughter] He worked as a speech writer for Walter Mondale, for which we can forgive him as Reagan won in a landslide in 1984. … On his impressive and lengthy resume, what I find most intriguing is that Charles is chairman of something known as Pro Musica Hebraica, an organization dedicated to the recovery of lost classical Jewish music. Now there is a real career. [laughter] … But the best compliment I can pay Charles is to borrow from an old E.F. Hutton TV commercial: When he speaks or writes, people listen. …

CHARLES KRAUTHAMMER: Thank you, Cal. There are nice introductions and there are kind introductions. … The kind ones are where they leave stuff out. Cal’s was distinctively unkind. [laughter] So I’ve got some ‘splainin’ to do. First, the Mondale bit. It is true that I was once a speechwriter for Walter Mondale, and people ask me, ‘How do you go from Walter Mondale to Fox News?’ And I tell them the answer is simple, ‘I was young once.’ [laughter] The other part he refused to leave out was the psychiatry part. … In truth, I am a psychiatrist in remission -- haven’t had a relapse in 25 years. [laughter] … In both lines of work [politics and psychiatry], I deal every day with people who suffer from paranoia and delusions of grandeur. [laughter] The only difference is the paranoids in Washington have access to nuclear weapons. That makes the stakes a little higher and the work a little more interesting. [laughter] … Ladies and Gentleman, Mr. Brent Bozell, distinguished guests — those three groups, by the way, are in descending order of size. (Laughter.) There’s always a delay on that one, especially after cocktail hour. Look, we all know why I’m here. Yes, you’re honoring me with the Buckley Award. It’s a wonderful title, and I am truly honored to be associated in any way with the greatest journalist and author of our time. But let’s get real. The real story here, as always in Washington, is somewhat different, and I’m here to break it.

Here’s what happened. Brent recently read that Inside Washington is about to close shop after 25 years. With a lightning calculation in his head he realized, to his horror, that that means I have spent 1,200 consecutive Fridays with Nina Totenberg. [laughter] Diana Nyad had it easy. All she had to do was swim the shark-infested Florida straits. I have had to spend 25 years of Friday mornings with Mark Shields, Colby King, Evan Thomas, and the afore-mentioned Miss Totenberg. And without, mind you, even once having throttled anyone or having gone stark raving mad. That, ladies and gentlemen, is heroism. I can assure of that. [laughter, applause] … So, I am now receiving and I humbly accept, your first annual Diana Nyad Endurance Award, and like her, I did it without a shark cage. Now, I’m told by my staff that when Ted Cruz heard about this award, he immediately sent me a congratulatory message, wishing me 1,200 more Fridays with Nina Totenberg. [laughter] …

… I could go on, indeed I told Brent I intended to speak for 21 hours and 13 minutes. (Applause.) But I brought the wrong shoes. So, in conclusion, allow me to thank you for this evening, and I want to say, especially to the young people here, keep your spirits up as we careen our way to Hell in a handbasket. (Laughter.) … But do not lose your youthful optimism. Let me remind you of the words of my favorite pundit, Otto von Bismarck, who once said, God looks after idiots, children, drunkards, and the United States of America. That was 1890. Let’s hope He [God] still does.

Previous winners of the award include Rush Limbaugh, Tony Snow, Brit Hume, Stan Evans, Cal Thomas and Andrew Breitbart.

The people at the Media Research Center do God’s work, namely, slaying heathens. There’s not nearly enough heathen slaying going on in this town and you do the work. I’m honored.
GALA

On September 26 in Washington, D.C., conservative talk-radio host Chris Plante, Fox News host Monica Crowley, and reporter and Fox News contributor Stephen Hayes presented the MRC DisHonors Awards while the acceptors were talk-radio host David Webb, Sarasota Springs Mayor Mia Love, Heritage Foundation President Jim DeMint, and Sen. Mike Lee (R-Utah). The nominee quotes were selected beforehand by a panel of distinguished media observers, including Sean Hannity, Mark Levin, Laura Ingraham and Walter E. Williams. The award “winners” were voted on by audience members, at each of the 86 dinner tables, through a Table Captain using electronic devices and flashing multi-colored lights.

AWARD #1:
The Barbra Streisand Political Dumb Ass Award

WINNER: HBO’s Bill Maher for saying Ronald Reagan was the “man most responsible for our decline” economically.

BILL MAHER: “Ronald Reagan was an anti-government, union-busting, race-baiting, anti-abortion, anti-gay, anti-intellectual, who cut rich people’s taxes in half, had an incurable case of the military-industrial complex, and said Medicare was socialism that would destroy our freedom. ... Both sides really should stop pretending he was something other than the man most responsible for our decline.”

AWARD #2:
The Dan Rather Award for Stupidest Analysis

WINNER: MSNBC’s Melissa Harris-Perry who said kids belong to the “collective,” to “whole communities,” and not solely their parents.

MELISSA HARRIS-PERRY: “We haven’t had a very collective notion of these are our children. So, part of it is we have to break through our kind of private idea that kids belong to their parents, or kids belong to their families, and recognize that kids belong to whole communities.”
AWARD #3:
The Puppy Love Award

WINNER: MSNBC’s Chris Matthews, who said Barack Obama has “never done anything wrong in his life.”

CHRIS MATTHEWS: “We know his whole life, through all the great, excellent education he’s had, the good pro bono work he’s done throughout his life. He’s never been a money-grubber. He’s never done anything wrong in his life — legally, ethically, whatever. His family is picture-perfect. The way he’s raised those daughters. Everything is clean as a whistle. And yet, they just refer to him as evil. They just refer to him as a liar. I’ve got to believe it’s ethnic with these people.”

AWARD #4:
Damn Those Conservatives to Hell Award

WINNER: Ex-Newsweek Senior Editor Jonathan Alter who railed that repeal of Obamacare “equals death.”

JONATHAN ALTER: “Repeal equals death. People will die in the United States if ObamaCare is repealed. That is not an exaggeration. That is not crying fire. It’s a simple fact.... [The Obama campaign should say] ‘No, we’re not calling Mitt Romney a murderer. What we are saying is that if he’s elected President, a lot of people will die.’”

Audience Participation Quote of the Year Award

WINNER: Ex-Newsweek Senior Editor Jonathan Alter: “Repeal equals death. People will die in the United States if ObamaCare is repealed. That is not an exaggeration. That is not crying fire. It’s a simple fact.... [The Obama campaign should say] ‘No, we’re not calling Mitt Romney a murderer. What we are saying is that if he’s elected President, a lot of people will die.’”
Children Majoring In Techno-Mayhem

As video games grow ever more violent and realistic, the latest sign of “progress” is the arrival of female characters you can take into combat in the latest version of the war game “Call of Duty.”

You may watch a hundred commercials selling this product, but no one tells the audience what’s really in it. There’s a reason: You’d be shocked. A panel of young pundits on the gaming website IGN.com recently pondered the question “How does it feel to have a woman get stabbed in the face?”

One young man admitted with a bit of shame that “I’m so, for the lack of a better word, numb to always stabbing dudes in the face” in games. But women? “It is kind of like, wait a second, it does kind of give me pause.”

The others on the panel thought he was all wrong. The lone female treated him as if he was lamely holding women’s progress back. Another man claimed to see the future: “I’ve certainly become desensitized to violence in games, violence in movies, violence as a whole. This is just the next step. I wouldn’t be surprised if in five or six years, there’s going to be kids [inside the war game] in ‘Call of Duty.’”

And let’s guess: when that happens, the gaming pundits will briefly consider — and dismiss — the shock of virtually stabbing children in the face.

It’s absolutely necessary that every step in the coarsening of the culture be accompanied by pundits insisting that raising moral objections is the mark of the fuddy-duddy. When the new game “Grand Theft Auto V” was released in September, New York Times reviewer Chris Suellentop spoke for the “guardians” of pop culture, insisting “as sex and violence have permeated prestige television, the controversies that once surrounded the ‘Grand Theft Auto’ games have begun to seem like sepia-toned oddities from another age.”

Rockstar Games, the makers of the perennially amoral “Grand Theft Auto” series, can claim the high ground of commercial success. Guinness World Records just announced “GTA 5” has smashed six world records, including the highest revenue generated by an entertainment product in 24 hours and the fastest entertainment property to gross a billion dollars. They sold over 11 million copies in its first 24 hours and hit a billion in sales within three days.

“GTA totally deserves to be recognized as an icon of modern British culture,” oozed Guinness World Records editor-in-chief Craig Glenday. (Add American culture, as well.) “Gaming is no longer a niche hobby, as GTA 5 has proved, and how exciting that it’s taken on the might of Hollywood and won.”

But after the hundreds of ads selling “Grand Theft Auto V,” fooled by the news reports gushing about its sales, what do we know about its contents? Again, no one really wants to address what’s inside the wrapper.

Suellentrop of the Times explained the plot. It’s “still an action game about hoodlums and thieves; we start with an extended bout of cop killing and proceed to a series of increasingly ambitious heists.” There are three villains you can choose to become, including “Trevor, an oddly lovable psychopathic meth dealer and gun runner.”

Another villain, Michael, announces the game’s cynical amorality: “Movies are about telling the same lies over and over again. You know, good beats evil, things happen for a reason, attractive people are interesting.”

It’s quite obvious this game is going to be opened on Christmas Day by 12-year-old boys, who will then be able to not only (virtually) slice policemen to ribbons, but buy and smoke marijuana, snoop on celebrities having sex for a paparazzo, and attend a strip club and buy a lap dance. They can go online and check out the “GTA 5 Prostitutes, Sex, Strip Clubs, and Booty Calls Guide.” This inspired Suellentrop’s one criticism of Rockstar Games: the women were all sexpots. “One of the only young women in the game not oversexed and under-read is sucked into a jet turbine.”

When many of us were young, we could wander the neighborhood for hours unsupervised. Sadly, parents today are too concerned for their children’s safety to let them play outside. So many of these children spend these same hours inside playing in a much darker world of techno-mayhem their parents can’t even imagine.

Someone, somewhere will someday find himself desensitized and numb enough to endlessly stab some girl in the face. And we’ll shake our heads wondering what might have been done to prevent it.
The experts at the Media Research Center are interviewed almost every day on stories of national importance, often reaching millions of Americans daily. They provide analysis and commentary on radio, TV, the Internet, in magazines, books and in newspapers, always striving to help restore political balance to the major media. The MRC’s analysis of the grossly biased network news coverage leading up to the government shutdown was discussed on Fox & Friends, Oct. 3.

On Oct. 11, during their weekly “Media Mash” segment, Fox host Sean Hannity and MRC President Brent Bozell discussed MSNBC’s Ed Schultz’s latest embarrassing rant: that Speaker John Boehner is guilty of “treason” over the shutdown and that the “popularity” of Obamacare is just “killing” conservatives.
The nation’s leading Media Watchdog has plans to be even MORE effective

There is no doubt about it, these next three years are going to be the most crucial years since this country’s founding. There is an all out war to turn this great nation into a socialist nanny state and the liberal media are the biggest proponents of it all — aiding and abetting anyone who toes the line.

As a frequent reader of The Watchdog and as a member of the MRC, you are well aware that no other conservative organization in America comes close to the level of impact the MRC makes every day — every day — in exposing the liberal media and providing the research the conservative media need to fight the great fight.

The MRC’s News Analysis Division, our news wire CNSNews.com and our blog, NewsBusters.org, are used or cited daily by many in the conservative news media. Our archive of liberal media bias, dating back to 1987, is flawless and totally unique. Our staff is top-notch — many of whom appear daily on leading radio or television programs to battle liberal media bias in the public arena.

As Brent Bozell has told you, we do not sit back and just “produce.” The MRC is active. We are at the forefront of this battle to restore our country to its roots. The MRC provides detailed, specific and rapid-response research every day that proves leftist attempts to influence the public by the three major broadcast networks, cable news channels, major publications, wire services, and Internet “news” sites. Your support makes this possible!

Our country is in dire straits, but imagine what life would be like without the MRC’s efforts over the past 26 years. The thought makes me shudder. Liberal media bias was once viewed as “a myth perpetuated by the conservative movement.” But now liberal media bias is a fact, a household word; and the public no longer readily trusts the Fourth Estate.

Likewise, the growth of the conservative media wouldn’t be as prolific, were it not for the MRC paving the way. It’s an exciting business, but it is difficult and never-ending. We are wholly dependent on donors like you. YOU are the backbone of this organization, and we do not take that for granted.

That’s why I’m comfortable asking you today to do something that will make it easier for us to do our job, to plan for the future, and to increase our effectiveness. Please automate your generous giving to this organization.

By setting up an automatic monthly gift with either your credit card or checking account — which gives you membership to our “MRC Patriots Fund” — you have one less thing to worry about each month. The flexibility of the program allows you to completely control your giving: you can change the amount of the gift or cut it off at any time with just one phone call to us or your bank. You have my word — this is the safest, most meaningful, most cost-effective way for you to make your gifts to the MRC. Here’s what I mean:

• This automation provides us with a steady flow of income each month. Since your contribution is the same amount, given to us on the same day each month, we’ll be better able to budget and fight the liberal media.

• Your automatic gift allows us to reduce our fund-raising costs. Since we won’t have to depend on mail solicitations for your monthly gifts, we can apply more of our resources directly to educating the public and exposing the left-wing agenda that dominates Big Media.

So please accept my personal invitation to become an MRC Patriots Fund member today. For more information about the MRC Patriots Fund, please contact contact our Monthly Giving Associate, Marissa Caligiuri today at (571) 267-3452 or send an email to her at: mcaligiuri@mrc.org.

If the MRC isn’t here producing the evidence to correct and refute lies and distortions coming from the left-wing press, who will be? Please join the MRC Patriots Fund today. Thank you.

Thom Golab
MRC Vice President of Development

“I’ve been an automatic monthly donor to MRC’s Patriots Fund for the last five years. Brent said that getting an automatic contribution from me every month would make the MRC more effective by putting more of my money into fighting the left-wing’s control of the Big Media. And that’s what I want! I personally urge you to join the Patriots Fund because it will empower the MRC to work much more effectively for our goal.”
